

Copyright Registration of Musical Compositions and Sound Recordings

This circular explains the difference, for copyright purposes, between musical compositions and sound recordings.

A musical composition consists of music, including any accompanying words, and is normally registered as a work of the performing arts. The author of a musical composition is generally the composer, and the lyricist, if any. A musical composition may be in the form of a notated copy (for example, sheet music) or in the form of a phonorecord (for example, cassette tape, LP, or CD). Sending a musical composition in the form of a phonorecord does not necessarily mean that there is a claim to copyright in the sound recording.

A sound recording results from the fixation of a series of musical, spoken, or other sounds. The author of a sound recording is the performer(s) whose performance is fixed, or the record producer who processes the sounds and fixes them in the final recording, or both.

Copyright in a sound recording is not the same as, or a substitute for, copyright in the underlying musical composition.

Registration of a Musical Composition and a Sound Recording with a Single Application

Although they are separate works, a musical composition and a sound recording may be registered together on a single application if ownership of the copyrights in both is exactly the same. To register a single claim in both works, give information about the author(s) of both the musical composition and the sound recording.

Filing an Original Claim to Copyright with the U.S. Copyright Office

An application for copyright registration contains three essential elements: a completed application form, a nonrefundable filing fee, and a nonreturnable deposit—that is, a copy or copies of the work being registered and “deposited” with the Copyright Office.

A copyright registration is effective on the date the Copyright Office receives all required elements in acceptable form, regardless of how long it takes to process the application and mail the certificate of registration. The time needed to process applications varies depending on the amount of material the Office is receiving and the method of application (see below).

Here are the options for registering your copyright, beginning with the fastest and most cost-effective method.

Circular 56A

Use This Chart to Determine if Your Work Is a Sound Recording or a Performing Arts Work

What is being registered	What the author created	What should be deposited Published in the United States*	What should be deposited Unpublished
Performing arts work Song or other musical composition	Music and words or Music	2 complete copies (if published in a notated copy) or 1 phonorecord (if published only on a disc or cassette)	1 complete copy (lead sheet, etc.) or 1 complete phonorecord (disc or cassette)
Sound recording Sound recording only	Sound recording	2 complete phonorecords	1 complete phonorecord
Musical composition and sound recording	Music and sound recording or Music, words, and sound recording	2 complete phonorecords	1 complete phonorecord

Points to note: Do not use “entire work” to describe what the author created. Deposit the “best edition” of a published work.

*For foreign publications, one copy or phonorecord of either the first published edition or the best edition.

Option 1: Online Registration

Online registration through the electronic Copyright Office (eCO) is the preferred way to register basic claims. Advantages of online filing include

- a lower filing fee
- fastest processing time
- online status tracking
- secure payment by credit or debit card, electronic check, or Copyright Office deposit account
- the ability to upload certain categories of deposits directly into eCO as electronic files

NOTE: You can still register using eCO and save money even if you will submit a hard-copy deposit. The system will prompt you to specify whether you intend to submit an electronic or a hard-copy deposit, and it will provide instructions accordingly. Hard-copy deposits are required for all published works.

Basic claims include (1) a single work; (2) multiple unpublished works if they are all by the same author(s) and owned by the same claimant; and (3) multiple published works if they are all first published together in the same publication on the same date and owned by the same claimant.

To access eCO, go to the Copyright Office website at www.copyright.gov and click on electronic Copyright Office.

Option 2: Registration with Fill-In Form CO

The next best option for registering basic claims is the new fill-in Form CO. Using 2-D barcode scanning technology, the Office can process these forms much faster and more efficiently than paper forms completed manually. Simply complete Form CO on your personal computer, print it out, and mail it along with a check or money order and your deposit. To access Form CO, go to the Copyright Office website and click on Forms. Do not save your filled-out Form CO online and reuse it for another registration. The 2-D barcode it contains is unique for each work that you register.

NOTE: Make sure your Form CO has a 2-D barcode on each page. Do not use screen shots to create your Form CO.

Option 3: Registration with Paper Forms

Paper versions of Form PA (performing arts works, including motion pictures) and Form SR (sound recordings) are still available. They are not available on the Copyright Office website; however, staff will send them to you by postal mail upon request. Remember that online registration through eCO and fill-in Form CO (see above) can be used for these types of applications.

Mailing Addresses for Applications Filed on Paper and for Hard-Copy Deposits

Library of Congress
U.S. Copyright Office
101 Independence Avenue SE
Washington, DC 20559-*

To expedite the processing of your claim, use the address above with the zip code extension for your type of work:

6233 for performing arts work
6237 for sound recording

NOTE: Copyright Office fees are subject to change. For current fees, please check the Copyright Office website at www.copyright.gov, write the Copyright Office, or call (202) 707-3000.

NOTE: To make a single registration, copyright ownership in the musical composition and in the sound recording must be the same.

NOTE: Phonorecords (tapes, cassette tapes, cartridges, discs) are not sound recordings. Phonorecords are physical objects in which various kinds of works can be fixed. The works themselves may be musical compositions, literary works, dramatic works, or sound recordings.

Effective Date of Registration

A copyright registration is effective on the date the Copyright Office receives all the required elements in acceptable form. The time the Copyright Office requires to process an application varies, depending on the amount of material the Office is receiving.

If you apply online for copyright registration, you will receive an email saying that your application was received.

If you apply for copyright registration using a paper application, you will not receive an acknowledgment that your application has been received (the Office receives more than 600,000 applications annually), but you can expect:

- A letter or a telephone call from a Copyright Office staff member if further information is needed or
- A certificate of registration indicating that the work has been registered, or if the application cannot be accepted, a letter explaining why it has been rejected.

Requests to have certificates available for pickup in the Public Information Office or to have certificates sent by Federal Express or another mail service cannot be honored.

If you want to know the date that the Copyright Office receives your paper application or hard-copy deposit, send it by registered or certified mail and request a return receipt.
