

Rather than Orphaned Works (and maybe this is a legal term), would it not be better to consider many of these works "abandoned". Could this be similar in concept to a Spanish galleon that sunk 500 years ago and only when the gold is brought up (after great effort) does anyone pay any attention?

Dennis Hollingshead