Comment:

This is a disastrous idea and is simply giving the go-ahead for laziness in tracing original creators. As a professional illustrator I absolutely oppose this move. I would NOT be 'delighted' to find my work had been used without my consent, under ANY circumstances. Where ever possible the originator should be traced or an alternative found, or else there is little point in people like myself trying to make a living, as it's the thin end of the wedge towards an image free-for-all.
