

Nathan-Rachel -20050505110003

To: Julie L. Sigall
Associate Register for Policy & International Affairs

Date: 05/05/2005

From: Rachel Nathan

Comment:

Copyrighted works whose creator or copyright holder cannot be found should become part of the public domain. This way, these people's important or interesting or just plain existing works can be used to further human knowledge and artistic expression. Don't make them inaccessible to people just because the copyright holder can't be found. Who knows, by entering them into the public domain, maybe the holders will find their works.